there is little clinical data to prove whether repetitive and forceful movements of the hand and wrist during work or leisure activities can cause carpal tunnel syndrome.

therefore as the ministry responsible for the women’s welfare in this country, we are concerned.